Shadwell adds a national silver to collection

A FIELD archer has been on target at the National Championships in Coventry, taking home a silver medal for the second consecutive year.

Emma Shadwell, aged 31, from Paddington, added the medal from the women's American flatbow competition to a vast collection spanning 17 years.

The shooter and her teammates from the Goshawk Archers Club, Hatton, receive no public funding but continue to compete at a national and international level.

They must pay for all expenses and travel to international competitions, including next year's world championships across the pond in Dakota, USA.

Shadwell, a receptionist at Cheshire Natural Health, Stretton, has previously won world championship gold in a different class. But she recognises that it is becoming increasingly difficult to compete with countries who receive sponsorship and government support.

She said: "Countries like the USA have full-time professional players, while we get no financial support.

"I've been lucky to find sponsorship in the past but when you're trying to balance a sporting career with a job it's difficult."
